Farewell, Jack

► Opposition leader was diagnosed with undisclosed cancer earlier this summer

Supporters of the New Democratic Party are remembering Jack Layton as a "real inspiration" after their leader succumbed to cancer early yesterday morning.

Calgarian Ruth Westenberger has been volunteering with the party for over 10 years and said she nearly broke down when she heard of Layton's passing, crediting his leadership as a major reason for her support of the NDP.

"I loved the guy, just like all the rest of our crew did, too," she said. "He was a real inspiration."

Longtime friend and leader of the provincial NDP, Brian Mason, said Layton proved the critics wrong in the most recent federal election, with the NDP becoming the official Opposition.

"I think the tragedy is that this man could have and very likely would have become the prime minister if this illness had not taken him away from us," said Mason in Edmonton yesterday.

Loss for 'all of Canada'

- Political scientist Keith Brownsey said Jack Layton's death could inspire others to run for the NDP.
- He said Layton played a crucial role in the NDP gaining more seats to become the official Opposition during the spring election.
- "It's a loss, not only for the NDP but for all of Canada. I was very interested to see how he would handle Stephen Harper in the fall."

Duncan, the only NDP member of Parliament in Alberta, said she was hopeful Layton would pull through.

"He was a remarkable human being," she said. "Lucky are the ones who had a chance to meet Jack in person."

Psych exam for man who allegedly slashed baby

A Calgary man charged with attempted murder for allegedly slashing his 11-month-old son with a kitchen knife will undergo a psychiatric examination.

The 32-year-old man, who cannot be named to protect the identity of the child, was charged after police responded to a 911 call at a home in southeast Calgary on Aug. 13.

Officers found an "angry and agitated" man and a baby inside the home. The child had been slashed several times on the neck and the abdomen with a kitchen knife.

The baby is now expected to make a full recovery.

Province delivers on police college

Ground for a long-promised police training college in southern Alberta has finally been broken.

Infrastructure Minister Ray Danyluk and Solicitor General Frank Oberle were on hand as 300 people in Fort Macleod watched the sod-turning.

The Alberta government first promised the training facility five years ago, but construction kept getting delayed. The government said the economic recession made it impossible to go ahead.

Last February, Premier Ed Stelmach announced it would go ahead.

Residents angered over perceived mould

► Mainstreet Equity Corp. spokesperson says the building roof was replaced earlier this year ► Tenants say water leaks have come through the roof, light sockets and smoke detectors

Concerns over what residents are calling mould in a northwest apartment have caused one tenant to move out and another to seek medical attention.

Atasha Hines, a resident of Glenbow Manor, said months of water leaks have now led to mould problems in her apartment unit.

"We found mould on Friday when we came home," said Hines, adding her boyfriend Brent Davis had to go to the hospital after an asthma attack.

"All we want is to break our lease and move out and get our damage deposit out."

Four-year building resident Peggie Crooks said there have been some improvements made in her apartment but added if the mould isn't addressed, it could impact her health.

"It will be (a concern) if it's not sorted out because I'm allergic to mould," she said.

Michael Birklein, spokesperson for Mainstreet Equity Corp., said internal inspectors have attended the building and determined it's not black mould.

"It is (a concern) but we know there's not black mould and that's what would be dangerous. What we have there is mildew," he said.

"What people have to understand is all apartment buildings in Calgary are 30-plus years old. ... They're all going to have issues come up — structural, plumbing, electrical, all that type of thing."

Complaints

- One resident, who wished to remain unnamed, said last month he fell through his third-storey rotting deck but managed to grab onto the railing.
- Multiple tenants said they are paying $1,050 per month in rent.
- Michael Birklein said Mainstreet Equity Corp. has a system in place for dealing with complaints.

Mom takes action on homophobia

► Advertisements to appear on Calgary Transit buses, trains and digital billboards ► Messages include 'Respect Diversity' and 'Support Transgender Rights'

JEREMY NOLAÏS
@METRONEWS.CA

Witnessing the struggles her gay daughter went through first-hand, a Calgary mother has launched a campaign aimed at stemming homophobic hate among some youth.

Gail, who asked to withhold her last name to protect her daughter's identity, says her 15-year-old has been subjected to homophobic remarks.

She also says she knows two gay friends who were assaulted aboard a C-Train.

"Calgary isn't always known to be the most accepting city," she said.

"But there is this section of beautiful people that are coming up. ... We have to honour that part of our society, I think."

To do just that, Gail went to work on the ad campaign in May.

Next month, her efforts will pay off as messages will be posted to the interior of Calgary Transit buses and C-Trains.

They will also appear on three digital billboards located near major thoroughfares.

Support group Calgary Outlink has joined in to help organize the campaign.

"The slogans were voted on by the youth," spokesperson Trent Warnier said.

"We thought a message from youth to youth was the best way to handle it."

Gail encourages others to lend their support and offer their own messages of tolerance.

"I don't want us to all be the same," she said.

Spread the word

► The anti-homophobia campaign has raised $4,000 so far to put toward the transit and digital advertisements.

► Along with Calgary Outlink, other support resources for gay youth in Calgary include the Miscellaneous Youth Network, which holds a group meeting on Wednesdays, and the Calgary chapter of Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays.

"It would be too dull of a world."

For more information, email info@calgaryoutlink.ca.

► Above are two of four slogans that will appear on Calgary trains, buses and digital billboards next month to promote tolerance for Calgary's gay community.

FALLING UNDER LAYTON'S CHARM

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

I had lunch with Jack Layton once. I wrote a column about the West and the man from Toronto to needed votes in the West, so we found ourselves at my favourite Szechwan restaurant in Vancouver.

The first surprise is that he ordered in Cantonese — learned from his wife, Olivia Chow. It surprised me, but the waiter was dumbfounded after so many years of being yelled at by unilingual patrons intent on ordering the fried green beans Szechwan style.

So I was impressed from the get-go.

Then we started talking about his roots in Hudson, Que., and it turned out we knew a bunch of the same people from Hudson. So after five minutes, he was my BFF.

I'm still not sure how it happened; it sure didn't take him long to get past the Dobermans. I was an easy victim of that legendary Layton charm.

But it wasn't until he started answering questions that I began to understand why more people ended up trusting Jack Layton than the rest of his party, not to mention Michael Ignatieff and the Liberals.

Ignatieff once insulted Jack by calling him a politician, but if all politicians were like Jack Layton, we'd live in a happier nation. Unlike most politicians — unlike Michael Ignatieff — Jack actually enjoyed mixing it up over fried beans and orange-peel chicken.

The interview turned into a kind of argument about energy. I asked him what he would say to oil company CEOs about the oilsands, and while he didn't reject the oilsands out of hand, he came back at me with all kinds of questions about their sustainability and about depending on an inefficient and limited source of energy when there were so many alternatives to be developed. He stuck to his guns even though it would have been better politics to stick to the usual array of meaningless messages. Talk about energy. Jack could light a city the size of Winnipeg with the passion and enthusiasm he brought to his arguments. But he brought something else — he was comfortable with his own answers. It was as if he actually believed what he was saying.

We stayed and argued long past the hour allotted for lunch. His assistant's BlackBerry buzzed ominously but Jack kept going.

But now he's gone for good. Though not before making several million friends, including one cynical columnist, at lunch.

We'll miss him.

An excerpt of a letter from Jack Layton to Canadians, dated Aug. 20, 2011.

... To young Canadians: All my life I have worked to make things better. ... As my time in political life draws to a close, I want to share with you my belief in your power to change this country and this world. There are great challenges before you, from the overwhelming nature of climate change to the unfairness of an economy that excludes so many from our collective wealth, and the changes necessary to build a more inclusive and generous Canada. I believe in you. Your energy, your vision, your passion for justice are exactly what this country needs today. You need to be at the heart of our economy, our political life, and our plans for the present and the future.

And finally, to all Canadians: Canada is a great country, one of the hopes of the world. We can be a better one — a country of greater equality, justice, and opportunity. ... My colleagues in our party are an impressive, committed team. Give them a careful hearing; consider the alternatives; and consider that we can be a better, fairer, more equal country by working together. Don't let them tell you it can't be done.

My friends, love is better than anger. Hope is better than despair. So let us be loving, hopeful and optimistic. And we'll change the world.

All my very best,
Jack Layton

Determination helps foreign-trained dentist restart his career in the Prairies

It is likely the first time in three years that Iranian-born Dr. Hooman Mohandesan has strayed from his disciplined path: the newly graduated dentist from the University of Manitoba set out on a rambling road trip from Winnipeg to Montreal to show his visiting mother a bit of his adopted country.

"I have a few weeks' vacation to visit old friends," chuckles Dr. Mohandesan, during a pit stop on a tour that caps a long journey as a foreign-trained dentist in Canada.

Reflecting on the eligibility exams, interviews and the two-year Canadian dental program at University of Manitoba, he notes that, "It's honestly very hard, but when you're done, you feel the joy and pride of this difficult task."

For that reason, Dr. Mohandesan followed a careful regime during those years – focusing on his studies with short work-outs at the gym. "Since there was no guarantee that I would be accepted to the program on my first try, I concentrated on the exams and making contacts to learn the process and prepare myself," he recalls.

While excited to rebuild his career in welcoming, multicultural Canada, the dedicated student struggled to preserve his savings, since he didn't know when he might begin his practice. "It took some time to get used to my new economic status as a student, with all the daily expenses, but no income," he explains.

Fortunately, during an orientation event at University of Manitoba, Dr. Mohandesan met Scott Bollman, Manager of Small Business at Scotiabank's 200 Portage and Main Branch. "I liked the interaction with Scott at our meeting," says Dr. Mohandesan. "Since as a newcomer I was not very familiar with the Canadian financial system, I had a lot of questions, and Scott was very patient throughout our discussion about student loans and banking options."

Scott explained the Scotia Professional® Student Plan, tailored for students like Dr. Mohandesan who were completing a professional degree, offered tips on affordable Winnipeg neighbourhoods and demonstrated how a Scotiabank line of credit would accommodate his needs.

"He's more like a friend, since I'm really dealing with a human being, not just an institution," says Dr. Mohandesan to describe the responsive Scotiabanker who has also approved him for a VISA card and foreign currency accounts, and provided advice on saving for his future.

"That's how we serve our customers, particularly new Canadians who face many challenges to establish themselves at the beginning," observes Scott. He adds that he offers programs such as the Scotiabank StartRight® Program<sup>1</sup> for Newcomers, which includes a free day-to-day bank account for one year<sup>2</sup>, a wide range of VISA® card options<sup>3</sup> and a number of other customized services and benefits.

Although Dr. Mohandesan is enjoying his leisurely family holiday, he's focused on his next steps – a fellowship at University of Manitoba and work at a private dental practice in Winnipeg. His advice to other newcomers: "Concentrate on your goals, learn the process and build good relationships with people who know what to do to get your career or finances in order."

THIS ADVERTORIAL IS PREPARED BY SCOTIABANK.

Scott Bollman welcomes internationally trained professionals to Scotiabank and provides helpful financial advice.

Gadhafi missing as rebels take control in Tripoli

- ▶ Rebels continue to fight in pockets of the city
- ▶ Warn danger is still present while Gadhafi on the lam

Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi was nowhere to be found yesterday as his 42-year rule teetered on the brink of collapse.

Months of NATO airstrikes have left his Bab al-Aziziya compound in Tripoli largely demolished. Most of his security forces fled or surrendered when rebel forces rolled into the capital Sunday night and took control of most of the city. And three of his sons are under arrest.

A mood of joy mixed with trepidation settled over the capital, with the rebels still fighting pockets of fierce resistance from regime loyalists firing mortars and anti-aircraft guns. Rebel spokesman Mohammed Abdel-Rahman, who was in Tripoli, said the "danger is still there" as long as Gadhafi remains on the run.

"The real moment of victory is when Gadhafi is captured," Mustafa Abdel-Jalil, head of the rebel National Transitional Council, told a news conference in the opposition's de facto capital of Benghazi, hundreds of miles east of Tripoli. He said the rebels have no idea where Gadhafi is and whether he is even in Tripoli. An Obama administration official said the U.S. had no indication that Gadhafi had left Libya.

TORNADO

Goderich reeling from storm

Residents of Goderich, Ont., returned yesterday morning to homes demolished by the most powerful tornado to hit Ontario in years.

At least 37 people were injured and a 61-year-old worker at a salt mine was killed as winds of 300 kilometres per hour raged through the beach and port town of 8,000, ripping the roofs off historic buildings, turning trees into match sticks and tossing cars around like toys.

After examining the damage, investigators determined the storm was an F3-level tornado, Environment Canada's Randy Mawson said.

"This is the worst damage I've ever seen," said Mawson, who has been investigating storms for 36 years. Winds of roughly 280 km/h carved a path about 500 metres wide through the town's centre, he added. THE CANADIAN PRESS

IRA fringe blamed for bomb scare

Police say British army experts have defused a small bomb that two masked men abandoned in a bank in the Northern Ireland border town of Newry.

Yesterday's alert forced police to evacuate a street of businesses for several hours. No group claimed responsibility. Police and politicians blamed Irish Republican Army dissidents.

SHE SAYS ...

JESSICA NAPIER
METRO

I always hated runners. As someone who only ever ran to catch the bus I thought of them as pretentious showoffs, herds of Lycra-clad gazelle sprinting through my neighbourhood and hogging the sidewalk.

Strangely, the more they annoyed me the more I wanted to be a part of it and so, at the beginning of the summer, I decided that maybe I should try. Of course, I couldn't muster up the motivation to get out there by myself.

I decided that if I was going to do this, a Learn to Run training clinic was probably the best place to start.

On the first day the instructor shared the secret to running: You only ever have to run for 10 minutes, and then you walk for one minute.

By maintaining a manageable 10-and-one pace, you allow your body to recuperate and are able to control that little voice inside your head telling you "This is too hard." I discovered that I could run forever if I only have to think about running another 60 seconds.

The first few weeks were torturous. My calves, shins, quads and other muscles that had been dormant for years were awoken in an excruciating manner.

Not only was I in constant physical pain, but I also felt self-conscious knowing that I didn't have any of the gear or gadgets to fit in with my new running club. Did I really need a GPS-enabled watch to calculate calorie expenditure and a four-bottle rehydrating fuel belt clipped around my waist?

But as the weeks progressed something unexpected happened — I started to enjoy myself. I felt better, ran faster and for longer, and I realized that if I stretched enough afterwards I could save my muscles from some of the burning pain I was inflicting upon them.

As I ran farther I started exploring new parts of the city. I came across hidden trails and waterfront paths populated with like-minded individuals, a dry-fit army bounding along with matching earbuds.

Sometimes, when I'm not too exhausted to use my facial muscles, I'll give these fellow pavement pounders a smile of recognition. I don't need to hate them any more; I'm one of them now — minus the $300 shoes and pace-monitoring shoelace clip with iPod synchronization.

Becoming a runner has made me smug — not because I think that I am better than anyone else, but because I am becoming an improved version of myself. I've been reborn to run.

May God bless peace upon Jack Layton's soul for eternal infinite time. Jack Layton fought for a poverty-less society through his whole life — we should carry his spirit and work for his aspiration!

ABDULLAH-BAQUIE GHAZI,
TORONTO

Jack Layton demonstrated his political skill in taking advantage of the opportunity provided by the Liberals and Bloc.

He developed his party into a mass movement and used a combination of his popular support and behind-the-scenes intrigue to propel himself into the official Opposition. Furthermore, he raised the profile of national socialism, showed how a country could behave, and created a virtual certainty that he would be misjudged by opponents. His shoes will not be easily filled.

WILLIAM PERRY,

I campaigned against this man, we didn't see eye to eye on many issues, yet our hearts connected by our will to serve. His spirit will carry on in service of all who stand for social justice.

Suspected smugglers keep pot above water

Three suspected Mexican drug smugglers have found out the hard way that unlike their boat, marijuana floats.

Mexican marines say they rescued three suspected smugglers whose boat was sinking on the Pacific Ocean and then arrested them after finding bales of marijuana floating around the vessel.

The navy said in a statement yesterday the men had been stranded off the port of Ensenada for more than a day before they radioed for help on Saturday.

Authorities suspect the men threw the bales into the water before calling for help.

The navy said that when marines reached them, the men were removing water from the sinking boat, which had suffered an engine malfunction.

More than 120 kilograms of marijuana were floating near the vessel. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Home ownership pricier — again

► The bad news: Housing prices still on the rise ► The good news: Lower interest rates may play in your favour

Home ownership in Canada became more expensive for the second straight quarter, but recent global market and economic turmoil could actually help keep a lid on expenses by keeping interest rates low, RBC Economics reported yesterday.

During the second quarter of 2011, the proportion of pre-tax income required to service the costs of owning a home increased for all types of houses measured in RBC's housing affordability index. But that trend may turn around going forward, said Craig Wright, RBC's senior vice-president and chief economist.

"Renewed turmoil in global financial markets has caused heightened un-

Suncor Energy Inc., which removed its employees from Libya when conflict broke out in February, said they wouldn't return as long as Moammar Gadhafi remained in charge.

"We are continuing to monitor how that situation unfolds," said Suncor spokeswoman Kelli Stevens as Gadhafi's regime seemed close to crumbling yesterday.

"The most important piece for us, right now, is that this latest set of developments might mean peace is nearer for the Libyan people."

Winslet escapes fire

Richard Branson says guests including actress Kate Winslet escaped uninjured when fire tore through his luxury Caribbean home in the middle of the night. The British businessman says about 20 people were staying in the house on Necker, Branson's private isle in the British Virgin Islands. Branson said he was staying in another property around 100 metres away, with his wife, Joan, and son, Sam. Sam managed to help evacuate Winslet and other guests from the house. He said the house was "completely destroyed" and the fire was not entirely out on Monday..

The Glee Project, where the winner gets a role on Glee, ends with a twist.

Psycho (1998)

Pretty much no one should go near Alfred Hitchcock, ever. But if you're daring enough to try, you should avoid doing a shot-by-shot remake of what is probably the master's best-known film. Still, you've got to admire Gus Van Sant's chutzpah. He shot it in colour — that's different — and added a few slight tweaks. Vince Vaughn plays the iconic Anthony Perkins role of Norman Bates and Anne Heche fills in for Janet Leigh as Marion Crane. But other than that, it's the same characters, same dialogue, same camera angles, even the same Bernard Hermann score from 1960. It's an intriguing exercise but, ultimately, a noble failure.

City of Angels (1998)

Wim Wenders' Wings of Desire (1987) is a modern classic, and it featured one of the greatest performances by the late Peter Falk. Melancholy, thoughtful and visually arresting, it followed unseen angels who watched over Berlin, observing people's actions, listening to their thoughts, quietly shaping their lives. City of Angels, by comparison, was too obvious — it spelled everything out and its emotions were too tidy. Brad Silberling turned this subtle story into a simple romantic comedy starring Nicolas Cage (as an angel) and Meg Ryan (as a heart surgeon), two actors who make absolutely no sense together.

The Women (2008)

George Cukor's 1939 cat fight, based on the play by Clare Boothe Luce, was intended as a satire of society mavens and their frivolous lives. In directing for the first time and writing the script, Murphy Brown creator Diane English made it a celebration. Sure, it had an all-female cast of solid actresses (Meg Ryan, Annette Bening, Cloris Leachman), as did the original, though perhaps not quite the stellar collection that included Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford and Rosalind Russell. Cukor's tone and timing were missing; English applied all the lighthearted instincts of her sitcom background and seemingly none of the insights of the source material.

The Invasion (2007)

There've been many versions of the sci-fi classic Invasion of the Body Snatchers, but this one had the least bite. Nicole Kidman, Daniel Craig and Jeffrey Wright went to waste as a few of the last citizens who managed to remain uninfected when a gloopy substance from outer space took over the population, turning people into emotionless drones. The whole point of this story has always been to serve as a reflection of its times. This time, there were passing TV news references to the war in Iraq and North Korean leader Kim Jong Il, but the film's political ideology felt tossed-in and half-baked. Worst of all, it wasn't the slightest bit scary or suspenseful.

The Karate Kid (2010)

This is admittedly a personal, nostalgic choice. But for anyone who grew up in the '80s, The Karate Kid inspires a deep fondness. Harold Zwart's version maintained the basic structure and even some key details, like the sweep-the-leg moment in the finale. It moved the setting from Los Angeles to Beijing, that's no big deal. The main problem was the casting of Jaden Smith, who was several years younger than Ralph Macchio was and looks even younger. And so neither the fighting nor the romance with a girl who's out of his league — two key components of The Karate Kid — made sense.

POM Wonderful Presents: The Greatest Movie Ever Sold

Genre: Documentary
Director: Morgan Spurlock
Stars: Peter Berg, Paul Brennan

●●●● No corporations were harmed in the making of Morgan Spurlock's latest documentary provocation, although a few may have been a trifle embarrassed.

Many were plainly delighted, especially POM Wonderful, the juice company that paid $1 million to have its name in the film's title.

For the boss-baiting Spurlock to suddenly polka with pooh-bahs may seem strange. Has the Super Size Me guy lost the will to annoy capitalists? The answer is maybe, but the good news is that it hardly matters, if you accept the film as entertainment rather than crusading journalism.

Spurlock is simultaneously selling out and pointing out, by putting his integrity on sale for what he believes is the greater good. He wants cultural consumers to know that their eyeballs are for sale.

After convincing us of advertising's ubiquity with an opening montage, he sets out to get some for himself. Few could pull off this fan dance as well as Spurlock, who manages to be both the laughing and crying clowns at the same time.

The Beaver

Genre: Drama
Director: Jodie Foster
Stars: Mel Gibson, Jodie Foster, Anton Yelchin

It's impossible to view Mel

Gibson's utterly natural performance here without thinking of the beast within this once-beloved actor.

But Gibson's real-life antics shouldn't distract us from the film's sober intent. Director Jodie Foster and screenwriter Kyle Killen use blunt symbols to illustrate this darkly comic story of Walter Black, a man fighting clinical depression in his own unique way: by letting a rodent hand puppet speak for him.

Making time for you

► Wellness expert says the best way to recharge is with some alone time ► Unwind with you

CELIA MILNE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Is life too busy? Do you feel overwhelmed? Overburdened? A little solitude may be just what the doctor ordered.

"Time alone is essential to our sanity," says Dr. Susan Biali, a Vancouver-based wellness expert, life coach and author of Live a Life You Love: 7 Steps to a Healthier, Happier More Passionate You.

You need solitude to rest, reflect, plan, dream, and breathe, explains Biali.

"If you don't get enough, you'll be cranky, stressed and even depressed."

For many people, especially introverts and creative people, constant stimulation is a form of physical and mental stress, and time alone helps to balance and defuse that stress. It can actually lower your blood pressure and deepen your breathing.

Mothers with young children and people caring for others get the least down time.

"Almost any mother I speak to says she is dying for more time alone but feels selfish or guilty in wanting it," Biali's advice? "Find the right balance for you and don't feel guilty about it. Being your healthiest, happiest and

Get alone time

So you need more time alone. How do you get it?

► Declare social bankruptcy
This is when your schedule and commitments are out of control and you feel like you might self-destruct. The next time someone asks for your time, you say, "I'm so sorry, but I've declared social bankruptcy until further notice."

► Exercise alone. People who are demanding of your time will accept your desire to exercise for a long and healthy life, even if they don't understand your need to be alone. Try blending the two together. Dr. Biali goes for a walk every single morning by herself, to clear her head and gain energy for the day. Or, escape to the exercise bike in the basement.

most well-adjusted self if the best gift you can give to others, as ultimately you'll be able to give to them more effectively."

Signs that you need an alone fix: You are irritable, you feel like snapping, you feel like screaming, you fantasize about time alone, you feel weepy, worn out and exhausted.

Check with your doctor to make sure you're not clinically depressed.

Chances are, you just need a break.

Research

Research has already found that Canadians think they're skinnier and taller than they really are, but a new study suggests they're also off the mark when it comes to the height and weight of their kids. The Statistics Canada research suggests rates of childhood obesity in the country are inaccurate as they most often rely on data from parents. The study found that on average, parents underestimated their child's height by 3.3 centimetres and weight by 2.4 pounds.

You should try the minimum

► Even 15 minutes of exercise a day can add years to life, study finds ► Don't use it to slack

Don't despair if you can't fit in the recommended 30 minutes of daily exercise. Growing evidence suggests that even half that much can help.

It's still no excuse to slack off. Regular exercise strengthens muscles, reduces the risk of some diseases and promotes mental well-being. The more exercise, the better.

But not everyone has the time or willpower. So researchers set out to find the minimum amount of physical activity needed to reap health benefits. The findings by a study in Taiwan suggest just 15 minutes of moderate exercise a day can lead to a longer life. This "may convince many individuals that they are able to incorporate physical activity into their busy lives," Dr. Anil Nigam of the University of Montreal said in an email.

Nigam had no role in the research but wrote an editorial on the study published last week.

Fitness guidelines recommend that adults get at least a half-hour of moderate workout most days.

fruit tarts, cookies, meringues) and drink (ginger ale, water, tea, coffee).

My combo included two turnovers; one filled with spinach and feta cheese and the other with mushroom and cream cheese. What they lacked in size was made up for in taste.

Dessert was a pitch-perfect mini lemon meringue tart.

My friend tried the combo with a salmon and asparagus quiche which featured a thin, flaky crust with chunks of salmon and asparagus. Her dessert was a mini tart with whipped lemon filling.

Seating is limited as there are only two tiny tables at the bakery. The delicate pastries strike the right balance between flakiness and richness. If one could be said to have a "pastry tooth," it would totally be satisfied here.

Doctored Ice Cream

No time to whip up homemade ice cream? You can doctor the purchased variety.

Preparation:

1 Open ice cream and microwave on high power for 30 seconds. It's best to work in 10-second intervals, checking ice cream between each. You are aiming for just soft enough to mix with a spoon, but not melted.

2 Transfer softened ice cream to large bowl and add the ingredients of your choice. Mix well, then transfer to a litre-size container with a tight lid. Freeze until solid, 1 to 2 hours.

Ingredients:

- 500 ml (1 pint or 2 cups) vanilla or chocolate ice cream

Add-In Suggestions

- Dried cherries and broken chocolate-covered pretzels
- Crumbled chewy molasses cookies and apricot jam
- Crushed banana chips, mini marshmallows and mini chocolate chips
- Cubed pound cake and chopped strawberries
- Almond extract and chunks of marzipan

The smoky flavours of the South

► With its smoke and sarsaparilla tastes, Grilled beef brisket is perfect suited for a casual get-together

Preparation:

1 Slice off top of garlic heads, wrap them in foil and bake in a 180 C (350 F) oven until softened, about 50 minutes. Squeeze garlic cloves into large sealable freezer bag; stir in onion, root beer, Worcestershire sauce, vinegar, sugar, honey, mustard, pepper and salt.

2 Pierce the beef brisket-pot roast all over with fork; add to freezer bag and seal, squeezing out as much air as possible. Refrigerate for 24 hours, turning occasionally.

3 Transfer the marinade into a saucepan and add 250 ml (1 cup) water. Boil the marinade for 3 minutes. Set aside.

Ingredients:

- 2 heads garlic
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 1 can (355 ml) root beer
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) each Worcestershire sauce and red wine vinegar
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) each packed brown sugar and liquid honey
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) dry mustard
- 5 ml (1 tsp) pepper
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) salt
- 1.8 kg (4 lb) beef brisket pot roast (thick double/point end/deckle section, not flat end/first cut)

4 For a 3-burner barbecue, place drip pan under grill in centre of barbecue; add 1 cm (1/2 inch) water to pan. Light remaining 2 burners and heat barbecue to low (110 C/225 F). Seal soaked hardwood chips in foil and poke with holes to let smoke escape; place under grill over a lit burner.

► This recipe makes 12 servings.

5 Place the roast, fat side up, on grill over drip pan. Maintaining constant temperature, close lid and cook, turning every 2 hours and basting with the marinade, for a total of 5 hours.

6 Remove roast to cutting board; let stand. Meanwhile, boil remaining marinade until thickened and onions are softened, about 20 minutes. Serve with thin slices of warm brisket.

I received a gift certificate from a girlfriend for X-mas. It is for both of us (it was a two-for-one deal) at a spa. After reading the fine print I noticed that "we" are responsible for tax and tip. My question is this: should I have to pay for my half? I didn't expect to have to end up paying for a gift. Fifteen per cent tax and 15 per cent tip (at least) is going to end up being kinda spendy on the $200 gift certificate. Am I wrong to expect her to pay for at least the tax and I can be left to decide what tip I would leave? Karen ► Gift certificates can sometimes be a tricky gift.

Dear Karen,

I fully agree with you that it would be correct for your friend to pay the taxes on the gift that she has given you. However, I suspect that this is going to end up your expense. I find it strange that the taxes were not collected at the time of purchase, however it is what it is. Putting taxes aside, any gratuity would be your responsibility unless your friend advises you that she has taken care of this.

Skip boring old playhouses and check out shows staged in an alley, cemetery or shed! Acting troupes across the country are eschewing typical theatres in favour of alternative venues that

Make daily routines more fun for kids

For most parents, morning and evening routines with kids are part of the daily battle. Whether it's convincing them to brush their teeth after meals, or wash their hands when they get home from school, most children are less than enthused about bathroom hygiene.

"A common complaint from parents is that their children aren't the most willing participants and get easily distracted," says child and family therapist Sara Dimerman. "Any time parents can come up with creative, fun ways to encourage children to engage in routines, the more success they will have."

Dimerman offers her tips to get kids more excited about daily bathroom routines.

Spice things up

Get some big, bright, fluffy towels. If kids enjoy the look and feel of the materials they're working with, they may be more motivated to spend time in the bathroom.

Throw in a cool gadget

Often a neat contraption will attract children. Delta's lavatory faucets with Touch20.xt technology will do just that. The flow of water is activated by simply touching anywhere on the faucet or by entering the faucet's sensing field.

"If there's something magical about the way that water comes out of a tap, or if kids can feel powerful and independent when turning the water on, there's a greater chance that they will willingly wash their hands or brush their teeth," says Dimerman.

► Bathroom hygiene is something your child may not be interested in.

they can just reach for them in the same spot. If they can also reach taps with the aid of a footstool, for example, as opposed to feeling they are too little to cope, they may be more inclined to work on their own.

Rub-a-dub-dub

Why not suggest your children have a shower instead of a bath? Showering can make them feel more grown up and independent. Updating your shower with a cool, high-tech handheld showerhead is also sure to get kids excited.

If a child can bring the showerhead down so that it is not looming so far overhead or even if he can direct the spray by holding the showerhead in his hand, he or she may be more motivated to wash regularly.

Offer an incentive

If the morning or evening routine is completed in a timely fashion, there may be more time to watch television before leaving for school or reading an extra book before turning off the light at night.

FUN AND FRUGAL

MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

Feeling stressed about back-to-school shopping?

You're not alone! According to a July 2011 survey conducted by VISA, Canadian households are frazzled by the crowds and are feeling gouged at the till.

The average family plans to spend $400 dollars this year on back-to-school paraphernalia. Of that, almost 50 per cent will be allocated towards clothing.

Save money on back-to-school shopping by slicing your budget in half, starting early and getting creatively frugal. Take an inventory of what you already have; pens, paper, software, backpacks, etc. Don't buy new supplies just because Junior wants them. Shop for necessary supplies throughout the year when stores have sales. Many stores are suffering from low consumer spending and plan to blow out inventory at clearance prices this fall to stimulate sales volumes. Get there early before the quality supplies have been picked over.

Hit up thrift shops, garage sales, neighbourhood clothing exchanges, and websites like eBay or Craigslist. See if you can pick up gently used supplies, computers, furniture, or clothing.

Costco or other wholesalers carry a variety of back-to-school inventory at affordable prices. If your kids have outgrown clothes or no longer need their textbooks, sell them on consignment or exchange with another family.

You don't need to spend hundreds of dollars on back-to-school shopping. School is a place of learning, not a fashion show.

ON MONEY

ALISON GRIFFITHS
MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

As the last 10 days, and indeed the last 10 years of the stock market have taught us, the financial you-know-what hits the fan on a pretty regular basis.

Recently, many pundits have urged us not to sell our holdings (usually mutual funds) in a panic because good investments will survive the carnage.

This is essentially the buy and hold philosophy, which has been a staple bit of investment advice for decades.

The trouble is it works just fine for mutual fund companies and commission based advisors because they get paid through fees as long as you hang on to your funds. But it doesn't work for most investors.

The reason is that during market meltdowns bad investments are hauled down further than good ones. They also take longer to recover and some never do.

How do you know you've got a stinker of a fund? Easy. Look it up. One of the best sites is morningstar.ca. Type in the name of your fund then click View Quick-take Reports.

Look down the quote page to the performance chart to see how well the fund has done over time compared to its category.

The chart will show a graph with three lines indicating how your fund fares relative to its category and also relative to the broader market.

For example, a broad-based Canadian equity fund would be compared against its category and also against the S&P/TSX Composite Index.

► Alison's money rule: A down market is the perfect time to evaluate the quality of your mutual funds.

You can also ask your advisor to pull up the same information for you on each of the funds you hold.

Note that most mutual funds will not perform as well as the index. Your goal is to have funds that outperform their category.

If any of your funds are sub-par you may want to sell and buy better ones in the same category (check into deferred sales charges first).

You will likely still get sucked down by stock market meltdowns when they happen but a good fund will ride it out much better than its lower quality cousin.

► Stampede emerge from bye week on top of their division

The Calgary Stampede are suddenly in the driver's seat in the CFL's West Division.

The Stamps owned the best record in the West at 5-2 after their bye week. Calgary has a chance to strengthen their position Saturday when they host the Montreal Alouettes at McMahon Stadium.

Division rivals Edmonton, B.C. and Saskatchewan are all off this week. The Eskimos and Roughriders look like teams in disarray.

While the Stampede relaxed and healed injuries during their week off, the Eskis lost their third in a row and the Roughriders sacked their head coach.

Edmonton's 36-1 thrashing at the hands of B.C., dropped them to 5-3 and allowed Calgary to claim first in the division. The Lions (2-6) are showing signs of life, but must dig themselves out of their early-season hole. The Riders fired Greg Marshall after losing to Toronto and dropping to 1-7.

The Stampede were aware of the drama happening elsewhere in their division, but kept it at arm's length as they prepared to face the defending Grey Cup champions Saturday.

“During the bye week, it was all ooohs and aahs and surprising things (happening), but right now it's back to business,” linebacker Juwan Simpson said yesterday.

“You notice it, but you can't because there's still a lot of game to be played and still a lot of things that can happen. We really have to focus on Montreal right now.”

The Stampede, winners of three in a row, scored more than 40 points for the first time this season Aug. 12 in Regina before commencing their eight-day break.

Calgary's offence is about a touchdown per game behind the pace of last season when the Stampede went 13-5. Running back Nik Lewis denies that's a sign the offence is less potent.

“Even last year when we went 9-1, it felt like the defence won four of those five early games that we won,” he pointed out. “We've got to come out and keep pressing. We've got the firepower. We've just got to put it out there.”

Oakland during the regular season until the team's sixth game. When he was allowed to enter yesterday's draft, he was handed a five-game suspension by commissioner Roger Goodell. Pryor gave up his final season with the Buckeyes after an investigation into the team's memorabilia-for-cash scandal.
